I learned how to make films and how to edit videos
I learned a lot about different aspects of filmmaking. The form of it, and how the elements such as cinematography, sound design, editing and mis en scene all come together to greater a cohesive film. We also filmed and edited a lot of our own film content utilizing cameras and lighting and mics to create different effects, which was really fun to do!

Describe how aspects of this course (lectures, discussions, labs, assignments, etc.) contributed to your learning.

The professor was very helpful of my learning and very responsive to questions
The classes centered partially around learning new content about the form of film, and then a lot of watching and discussing specific examples of this being applied in different films. Some days we had media lab time to work on our projects, and some times we also had viewings/criqiues of our work. There was a weekly assignment, building off the theme of the week, and were all super interesting and informative!
Lectures and in class activities probably contributed the most to my learning, though I constantly found myself wishing we were taught more — it seemed like we skipped over a lot of basic information, like how to use the M50 camera, how to frame a shot, the different kinds of camera angles, etc.

Grading is super chill. Most of the class doesn't even fulfill all the requirements for each assignment that the prof asks of us.

Thinking about your time in the class, what aspect of the instructor's teaching contributed most to your learning?

Comments
The instructor expertise in cinematography as well as walking us through the shots
The instructor is absolutely fantastic! She really cares about her students, and helps support you in the work you're doing. The examples she uses in film are incredibly interesting, and really help advance your understanding of the content. She provides feedback on all of your assignments that are detailed and really helpful to improving your work.
Catherine was really available outside of class and responded to emails promptly, which I greatly appreciate. In class discussions/lectures were always quite helpful; I just wish we spent less time on the second to last day of class doing the movie set role play assignments with each other's final projects. It was really good at engaging us with the different roles and helping us understand each role's responsibilities, but by the second or third hour of that, everyone was clearly tired of it, and I wish we moved on or at least moved faster.

What could the instructor modify to help you learn more?
