queer world making, critique of Western feminism, biopower + various discussions on queer politics, public sex
How different power structures control our perceptions of different groups.
Honestly I have no idea. A lot of the material I wasn't really comfortable with (I didn't expect this quarter to be so focused on sex), and a lot of the rest of it went over my head very quickly.

Describe how aspects of this course (lectures, discussions, labs, assignments, etc.) contributed to your learning.

Discussing the text in class.

What could the instructor modify to help you learn more?

Comments
Sometimes Dr. Trujillo would go on tangents about certain aspects of queer theory, which were interesting, but not having a basic foundation of what the readings lead to me feeling a bit lost when he did deep dives.
Nothing.
Mostly just felt like there wasn't a coherent theme throughout the course, or even between different readings.
