I took this PIR sequence with Professor Nogales the entire year. If you want to actually learn the material, this is the section to choose. I had an amazing time in the course thanks to how everyone else in the section was also an active participant. Honestly, probably one of the best courses I have had the pleasure of taking.

I would recommend this course to:

	No	Yes
Highly-motivated and well-prepared students	0.00%	100.00%
Anyone interested in the topic	0.00%	100.00%

Thinking about your time in the class, what aspect of the instructor's teaching contributed most to your learning?

her commentary on discussion
Nogales is always engaging and her passion for the material makes class time an absolute delight. She thrives when everyone in the course is asking questions and actively participating.
Professor Nogales is one of the instructors that comes to my mind when I look back on hearing all about the quality and caliber of instructors that UChicago stakes its reputation on having. Professor Nogales does not shy away from holding students accountable for being late, not participating, etc. But, that is part of what helps her create such an inviting, dynamic, and open space for discussion. She is incredibly well versed in the texts, and cares deeply about the topics presented. At the same time, she cares equally as much in the objective presentation of the ideas, and the focus on the text as written, not as interpreted by people who have only a passing understanding. She allows all views, critiques, questions, and ideas to come to the table to be discussed. She gives great feedback, and only wants to strengthen your ability to think critically, think confidently, and be a good steward of honest, and competent discussion. I hope her course list gets expanded outside of the PIR core so that I can take more classes of hers. I could leave UChicago tomorrow and my time will have been worth it for haven taken her classes.

What could the instructor modify to help you learn more?
