What are the most important things that you learned in this course? Please reflect on the knowledge and skills you gained.

Comments
How colonization and the period after affected Blacks within and beyond Africa.
history of decolonization efforts
Pan–Africanism, decolonization through music, literature, conferences, art, etc. I learned how to view music/art/nontraditional media through an academic lens (we watched Nigerian pop music during class once – it was really cool to analyze pop culture through the lens of decolonial narratives!)

Describe how aspects of this course (lectures, discussions, labs, assignments, etc.) contributed to your learning.

Comments
The lecture and the readings were most important. The lectures helped aid our understanding of the readings we did.
discussion posts helped reflect on readings
Discussions were always fruitful, Canvas posts were sometimes annoying but got me to do the reading at the end of the day, so they were a good thing

Additional comments about the course:

Comments
Prof Hickerson is truly wonderful! She makes herself available for office hours, facilitates interesting class discussions, grades fairly and constructively, and is visibly passionate and excited about her work. She is one of the most fun professors I've had in a while. LOVE her and definitely recommend any course with her!

Thinking about your time in the class, what aspect of the instructor's teaching contributed most to your learning?

Comments
Professor Hickerson was extremely enthusiastic in her teaching and provided tons of actually interesting material for us to read/watch/listen.
leading in class discussions
Class discussions and office hours! Prof. Hickerson is incredibly skilled at getting people to contribute to class, and assigning homework and material that people are actually interested in. Makes a huge difference!!

What could the instructor modify to help you learn more?

Comments
Nothing
n/a
The Canvas posts each class were a bit annoying but not that bad. Sometimes the readings were a bit long.
