it's what you would expect the book provided some resources, but i did like the songs that she recommended. they were fun to listen to and since i liked listening to them, i was able to get a better grasp on certain topics like indirect and direct object pronouns.
I felt we could have spoken more in class and worried less about concrete exercises – just speaking was when I felt I learned the most.
Yes, all materials helped with learning.

What did you learn about culture through language?

South American countries' culture lots about peru, spain, and a good amount of music, food, and dances

How useful did you find the required out of class aural/oral activities (e.g. cultural activities, conversational practice, activities of your choice, films, etc.)?

Comments
It's a bit annoying because it's just another thing you have to do, but for me, it's the most important part of the class. I'm taking this class because I want to be able to communicate in Spanish, and the best way to do it is quite literally just to talk in Spanish.
conversational practice on linguameeting was pretty reliable
I found the lingua meetings very useful – speaking in those situations is when I learned the most in the whole class and it was a rewarding process.
Class oral activities were very helpful to practice

Overall, would you say you had a good instructor?

Deadlines/assignments were hard to follow, didn't really teach anything, we were expected to self-teach beforehand. She's not a bad teacher, I like her a lot, I just think she should be teaching a higher level Spanish class because it seems like she gets frustrated with us for not knowing things that are trivial to her.
she was open to questions and very friendly. she also made it easier to understand more tricky topics by giving examples during class.
Prof. Issert cared so much. She always brought cultural food to class. She tried to do fun and interactive learning games. She taught us a lot and I had a lot of fun doing it.
