What are the most important things that you learned in this course? Please reflect on the knowledge and skills you gained.

Comments
Analyzing the aspects that make up a biography.
How to write and think about literature
How to closely analyze text and to pull my own interpretation from those analyzations.

Describe how aspects of this course (lectures, discussions, labs, assignments, etc.) contributed to your learning.

Comments
Readings and essays are the most important parts of the class. Do the reading, and you'll be able to contribute to class discussions (which is important since participation is a grade). Writing seminars were somewhat helpful.
Discussions, some homework assignments and then essays
Classroom discussions were great, doing close reading during class was definitely helpful.

Thinking about your time in the class, what aspect of the instructor's teaching contributed most to your learning?

Comments
Adam Flowers is an amazing instructor that truly descended from the heavens. As a stem major, I honestly feel that my teachers actively work against me to see me fail. Adam is always willing to help you and clearly tells you what his expectations are. His policy in grading is just improvement which is very feasible.
I like the insights he brought to our readings.
Adam's way of making us all feel included and making the classroom feel like a safe space for anyone to participate in

What could the instructor modify to help you learn more?

Comments
nothing!
I don't think he has any control over it, but 4 books in one quarter is too much. there's not enough time to read it and then write an essay. Additionally, that means students have to be reading/discussing a book while writing an essay on the previous book, there's too much overlap and it's hard to keep them separate in your mind very beginner friendly!

It wasn't that hard to write the essays but to write so many in such a short time-frame was the real challenge. Used to writing literary essays from high school
