Thinking about your time in the class, what aspect of the instructor's teaching contributed most to your learning?

| Comments |
|---|
| A lot of times, she evaluated what the class needed the most and then accommodate class time to that. She would also often asked us what we wanted out of the class that day and we would sometimes watch videos that correlated to what we were learning. I also appreciated that she would ask us if any terms were confusing during our discussions, and took the time to explain what they were. |
| She is clearly excited about the material which is very engaging |
| Brining in external content into discussions. |
| Professor was always very warm and welcoming. Office hours with her was always very helpful, and her lectures always helped me understand the content a lot better. She was definitely one of the best professors I have had (in HUM, SOSC, Civ)— with true passion for teaching and wanting to help students learn. |
| Instructor was really good at explaining complex and confusing ideas in the texts we read |
| I loved the historical context that Professor brought to the class — it helped provide a wider context to our readings. I also liked how she held plenty of space to hear our thoughts and work through ideas in class discussions. |

What could the instructor modify to help you learn more?

| Nothing, the class was pretty great. |
| Posting slides |
| Come with more discussion questions. |
| Nothing since she was amazing! |

Comments
I had no previous academic experience in a course like this and found it to be very accessible and not intimidating to ask questions when confused.
Not hard at all
While it starts in with a very theory heavy course, it definitely allows anyone to learn and do well in the course.
Difficult but not unreasonably so, as someone with no background in this subject
It was relatively approachable
